More often than not, tipsters, readers, friends and family of Eater have one question: Where should I eat right now? And while the Eater 38 is a crucial resource covering old standbys and neighborhood essentials across the city, it's not a chronicle of the "it" places of the moment. Thus, we offer the Eater Heatmap, which will change continually to always highlight where the foodie crowds are flocking to at the moment.

The qualifications for the the map is the restaurant has been around for less than 6 months and is serving up some cuisine that has the city buzzing. The restaurants are listed in this map are in geographical order from north to south.

11 La Centrale - Italian Food Hall

This three floor, 40,000-square-foot Italian food hall boasts 14 different Italian eateries and five bars and more than 600 seats. Dining options range from grab-and-go food counters to casual dining restaurants to upscale, sit-down restaurants. It also features a retail component with a selection of more than 1,000 Italian retail products, grocery staples, such as meats, fish, bread, cheese and more as well as 500 different wine labels.
